ACP Chapter Collaboration: Important Physician Wellness Survey

Physician burnout will not go away without meaningful changes to our work environment. As a valued ACP member, we need to hear from you: What changes would you like to see? Please complete this survey to help steer the conversation in the right direction.

Multiple ACP Chapters are collaborating to understand internal medicine physician views on interventions that can minimize the burden of burnout among members of the American College of Physicians (ACP).

All responses are anonymous, will be analyzed in aggregate, and stored in a secure fashion housed behind the firewall of Intermountain Health. This research poses no more than minimal risk to harm subjects and involves no procedures for which a signed consent is required. A negligible risk of a breach of confidentiality exists and safeguards of Good Clinical Practice are maintained, including the survey being collected anonymously, to prevent this from happening. If you have questions regarding your rights as a research subject, or if problems arise which you do not feel you can discuss with the Investigator, please contact the Intermountain Institutional Review Board at 1-800-321-2107 or by email at IRB@imail.org.

It should take about 10-15 minutes to complete the questionnaire. Participation in this study is voluntary.

Click here to take the survey, and THANK YOU for helping us better understand how to reduce burnout among internal medicine physicians!
